DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 31, 32, 34 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fjelstad, Joseph (U. S. patent 5,989,939).

In re claim 31, Fjelstad, in the U. S. patent 5,989,939; figures 1 – 24 and related text, discloses providing a film substrate 1 having a main surface, a rear surface opposing to the main surface, several device forming areas of the main surface 4 and electrode members 5 individually separated from one another and formed on the device forming areas (Figure 1C; Column 5, Lines 64 – 68); providing several semiconductor chips 6 each having a main surface thereof and electrodes 8 formed on the main surface thereof (Figure 2); arranging the semiconductor chips on respective ones of the device forming areas and electrically connecting the electrodes of the semiconductor chips with electrode members on the respective device forming areas (Figure 5); forming a resin encapsulater collectively sealing the several of device forming areas, the electrode members and the semiconductor chips (Figure 6); and cutting the resin and the film substrate between adjacent device forming areas by dicing (Column 11, Lines 1 – 18); wherein the electrode members are spaced apart from a cutting surface resulting from the cutting step (Figures 24 and 7).

3. In re claim 32, Fjelstad discloses further including a step of separating the resin encapsulater from the film substrate and thereby revealing the electrode members on one side of the resin encapsulater before the cutting step (Figure 11).

4. In re claim 34, Fjelstad discloses wherein further including a step of plating the revealed electrode members, after the step of separating the resin encapsulater (Column 7, Lines 54 – 60).

5. In re claim 35, Fjelstad discloses wherein the plating step is performed before the cutting step (Column 11, Lines 19 – 35).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 33 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fjelstad as applied to claims 31, 32, 34 and 35 above, and further in view of Bennett et al. (U. S. patent 6,235,387 B1).

Art Unit: 2823

Fjelstad does not disclose wherein the cutting step includes a step of sticking dicing tape on another side of the resin encapsulater, wherein the another side is opposed to the one side of the resin encapsulater.

However, Bennett in the U. S. patent 6,235,387 B1 and related text, discloses that wafer dicing is conventionally carried out by attaching the backside of the wafer to the adhesive surface of a tape (often called a dicing tape), securing the tape wafer to a vacuum table to restrain it against movement (Column 3, Lines 31 – 36).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to stick a dicing tape on another side of the resin encapsulater, since, as taught by Bennett it is a conventional way to separate the dies from the wafer.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments filed 18 April 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive for the following reasons. Fjelstad discloses each and every one of the limitations of the independent claim 31 as noted in the rejection above. Also Fjelstad discloses the limitations of dependent claims 32, 34 and 35 as described in the rejection above with the proper citations of the reference where the limitations can be found.
9. The combination of Fjelstad and Bennett provide sufficient motivation for the rejection of dependent claim 33 as noted in the rejection above with the proper citations of the references where the limitation can be found.
10. Therefore, the newly submitted claims stand rejected.

Conclusion

11. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
